

Dragonians

By Brigitta Angelina

Prologue

A white moon flows over the sky. A village settles down in a forest. That village was special, since it had something that no one else has. On the 7th of the 7th month, the village will offer gifts to the dragons that come. They may offer crops, jewellery, and other kinds.

Once every 7 years, the dragons will mate and their dragon eggs would be given to the village. "The dragons will give their unborn childrens to us, and let us warm the eggs until it hatch. They would choose the person who would take care of their child until the next meeting." As the saying form the village's legend and culture.

On the 63rd anniversary, the dragon's leaders, Bjakskular and Favory came to the village with their eggs. Since it's a rare occasion for the leaders to come, the village has been wondering who would be the chosen one.

When the dragon's arrive at the village, Bjakskular gave his introduction to the villagers. "Welcome, villagers of Arganon. As you know, Favory and I have brought our heir here. The chosen owner will become the leader of the Skafarorya Clan. We shall tell you when the full moon rises."

Everyone became excited, as the Skafarorya clan is a special clan for chosen ones to be adopted. Their ability to communicate to the dragons are special, as they receive a marking and ability to interact with one another.